Federal Loan Alternatives

There are currently no Federal Loan Alternatives that allow the refinance of private education loans. Federal Direct Consolidation Loans only allow for the refinance of federal student loans and may not be used to refinance private education loans. The interest rate for the Federal Direct Consolidation Loan equals the weighted average interest rate of the loans being refinanced, rounded up to the nearest one-eighth of one percent.

Think carefully before using a refinance loan to pay off your federal student loans. If you refinance your federal student loans through this program, you will lose federal student loan benefits such as income-driven repayment or loan forgiveness options that may be available to federal student loan borrowers. In addition, federal student loans offer deferment and forbearance options that are not available to you if you take out a private refinance loan.

You may qualify for a Federal Direct Consolidation Loan. For additional information about a refinance option for federal loans, contact the Department of Education at <https://studentaid.gov>.

Next Step

1. Find Out About Other Loan Options

Visit the Department of Education's website at <https://studentaid.gov> for more information about refinance loan options that may be available for federal student loans.

2. To Apply for this Loan, Complete the Application.

An Approval Disclosure will be provided to you by BND after you have completed the application process and your loan has been approved.

The Approval Disclosure will identify the loan terms in effect at the time and will be available for 30 days (terms will not change during this period, except as permitted by law).
